Presentation from the President and the Director

The 2017 annual report details our main teaching and research activities, and contains data and other information relating to our academic endeavours. It highlights the intricacies of teaching and research dynamics at the Institut Barcelona d’Estudis Internacionals (IBEI).

This is a treasured trait of IBEI as an academic institution: in contrast to the specialization – and isolation – of research, and in opposition to the standardization of teaching delivery, we believe that multiple linkages between the two domains result in quality and excellence in both. Creativity and performance emerge easily in fluid environments, where an academic community is committed simultaneously to learning and to supporting learning.

Of the numerous activities that took place at IBEI in 2017, it is important to highlight and celebrate two important conferences. The first one, which focused on development and inequality, was held in May 2017, and we must thank the conference sponsors whose generosity enabled extensive participation of researchers from the developing world. The second was the largest conference we have ever organised at IBEI: the annual conference of the European International Studies Association (EISA), which brought together about 1,500 scholars in Barcelona during the third week of September.

This year, we also observed the progressive consolidation of the new Master’s in International Development, launched the previous year, with great success. The development of the Barcelona.Gov initiative, an executive training programme conducted in partnership with the Barcelona City Council and several Barcelona universities, is a clear indication of IBEI’s interest in the field of urban administration and policy in the context of globalization. We aim to strengthen our professional, personal and intellectual ties with a variety of stakeholders and academic networks to promote global thinking from Barcelona, and this programme contributes to that goal.

In this 2017 annual report, we invite you to learn more about IBEI, the partnership opportunities we offer, and the ongoing developments in research and teaching initiatives.

Master’s in Public Policy (Mundus MAPP)

- An official master’s degree offered jointly by the Central European University, the International Institute of Social Studies of Erasmus University Rotterdam, the University of York, the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, the Universitat de Barcelona and the Universitat Pompeu Fabra. It is operated as an Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree Program funded by the European Commission.

- Two-year international programme intended to equip graduates with the conceptual knowledge and hard skills that are necessary for understanding and decisively intervening in contemporary transnational policy problems, from climate change to international terrorism or financial regulatory failure.

- Classes are taught in English. At IBEI, students may take some electives in Spanish.

- The four mobility tracks allow students to specialize in Political Economy and Development, Governance and Development, European Public Policy and Global Public Policy, respectively.

- The CEU-IBEI track specializes in Global Public Policy while the ISS-IBEI track revolves around the topic of Political Economy and Development.

- Taught by highly-qualified IBEI faculty and associate faculty from the three universities (UPF, UAB, UB) that jointly offer the degree, as well as faculty from other major international academic institutions.

The Teaching Model

The teaching model at IBEI involves the following components:

- Courses delivered in ECTS format
- Intensive use of virtual campus and digital documents
- Small groups in electives and practical seminars
- Personal tutor for each student
- Studying in an active research environment
- Possibility of attending:
  - Conferences at IBEI and UPF as well as at other close institutions such as CIDOB, IEMed or La Caixa Foundation.
  - Research Workshops/Seminars at IBEI
  - Practitioners Seminar Series and Career Skills Workshops
  - Research methods training
  - IBEI Summer Schools
  - Opening Lecture and Graduation Ceremony with high-profile keynote speakers
Internship Programme

The objective of professional internships is to acquaint students with the tasks and challenges involved in the daily practices of organisations and professionals in international relations and security.

These internships may be curricular or extracurricular. In either case, the student must be enrolled in a Master’s Programme offered by IBEI. IBEI offers its own curricular internships.

These are managed directly through collaboration agreements already in place with various companies and institutions. Professional internships do not establish a connection or work relationship between the student and the company or institution.

Enrolment Process

Curricular internships make up part of the curriculum of each Master’s Programme.

Students are required to enrol in the elective course titled “Professional Internship”, worth 4 ECTS credits.

This internship is thus part of the 60 credits necessary to complete the Master’s programme.

Internships are required to have a minimum of 120 hours and a maximum of 900 hours.

Selection Process

International institutions, public organizations or private companies, working in collaboration with IBEI send a description of conditions and tasks of the internship, which will be forwarded to students who have requested information about the IBEI internship programme. Students may then notify IBEI if they are interested in it submitting a CV and a cover letter.

The final selection of candidates will be made by the host institution. The internship will be formalized through an appendix of the Internship Agreement signed by IBEI, the host institution and the student.

Assessment of curricular internships

Curricular internships are subject to a predefined and standardised assessment system. The final mark is based on two reports:

1. Report from the student’s supervisor in the host institution
2. Five-page personal report written by the student

The student must submit the final report to the IBEI Academic Internship Coordinator by email within one month upon completing the internship.

The IBEI academic coordinator of internships is responsible for determining if the student passes the course.

The final mark is the average of the supervisor’s report and the personal report.

Financial Aid and Scholarships

IBEI offers merit-based scholarships that partially waive tuition fees.

There is also a number of grants sponsored by supporting institutions, which covers full or partial tuition fees of the IBEI Master’s Programmes and based on academic achievements.
Academic Highlights. Class of 2016-17

1. Opening Lecture
   October 2016
   The IBEI opening lecture is the institutional inauguration of the academic year. Mr. Raül Romeva, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Institutional Relations and Transparency of the Government of Catalonia, was invited to pronounce the inaugural lecture.

2. Academic Lectures
   From October to June 2017
   Academic lectures that deepen in the topics that are being dealt within the masters. Some of the speakers were Mia Bloom, Barbara Koremenos or Jose Gabriel Palma, among others.

3. Career Skills Workshops
   January - April 2017
   As part of the Internship Programme, IBEI organizes several workshops and lectures with the aim of improving students’ professional skills and in order to give them an insight into different job profiles.

4. IBEI Study Trip to Geneve
   May 2017
   Some IBEI Students travelled to Geneva as part of the 2017 edition of the IBEI Study Trip. This was a great opportunity for them to find out more about international organizations and their day-to-day work, and also to meet with diplomats and practitioners that work at diplomatic missions.

5. Graduation Ceremony at Universitat de Barcelona
   June 2017
   Prof. José Ignacio Torreblanca, Editor-in-Chief of EL PAÍS and Professor of Political Science at UNED, attended the Graduation Ceremony 2017 as a keynote speaker with the lecture “The New International Disorder”. The IBEI graduates received their Master’s Certificates from the vice-rectors of the corresponding universities (UPF, UAB and UB).
Executive Education

Executive Master’s Degree in Diplomacy and Foreign Affairs

With the aim of building capacities in Catalan institutions in the field of foreign affairs, the Public Diplomacy Council of Catalonia and the Secretariat for Foreign and EU Affairs agreed to launch a supplementary study programme in the field of diplomacy and external affairs, intended for employees of Catalonia’s civil service with international experience.

The Executive Master’s in Diplomacy and Foreign Affairs is an innovative post-graduate programme, tailored to the needs of a 21st century public administration. It is designed to prepare for the management of a dynamic and flexible foreign policy and for meeting the challenges of an interdependent world in the communications era. The 10 month training programme focuses on Economy, Communications and Negotiation, without neglecting more traditional areas such as International Law, European Affairs and the History of International Relations.

Barcelona’gov

A network of Research and Advanced Training Centres in governance, management and public policy born at the end of 2014 to promote a platform of knowledge and excellence in public policy in general and more specifically in the policies and urban management.

The platform offers courses focused to governance and public policy issues, with special attention to urban policy, urban management, urban resilience and social segmentation, innovation management, public-private partnerships and international cities.

Barcelona’gov offered six courses taught between October and December 2017.

Sant Pau Summer Studies Series is an intensive, one-week pre-university programme in international affairs for IB and Baccalaureate students.
Mentorship Programme

The IBEI Alumni Mentorship Programme was launched under the IBEI’s admissions campaign the 2015-16 academic year with the aim of accompanying the potential students towards their application and admissions processes.

The IBEI as such provides students with answers to more formal questions such as the different master’s programmes, housing, professors, courses, deadlines, visas etc. However, there are queries about the programmes and the Barcelona experience which the alumni, may be able to answer/clarify best by sharing their experience when studying at IBEI.

Through the Mentorship Programme the new students gain a better insight of the daily functioning of the Institute, the city of Barcelona, and many other aspects of the IBEI experience.

A total of 136 IBEI Alumni have volunteered to become mentors and 94 new students have participated as mentees.

Most of the mentors studied the MIR (either track), but IBEI is glad to see that there are also former students who are providing help for the most recent programmes: the MIS and especially the MID. In addition, the mentorship programme spans a wide geographical area, as the mentors are currently located in different cities around the world. One of our objectives is to match nationalities and programmes, wherever possible. With this diversity, the Alumni Mentoring Programme becomes ever more global. Here you have the profile of our alumni who have helped mentor the students of 2017-18.

Alumni Job Placement

The IBEI made the 2017 report on job placement of its graduates from a survey conducted during 2017 to all its graduates of the years 2013, 2014, 2015 and 2016. This is the third time that the IBEI has carried out this survey, which aims to collect data every two years on the working conditions of graduates and the impact that IBEI Masters have had on their professional careers. The following conclusions can be drawn from the analyzed data:

- Most graduates currently have a job and they have found it in less than a year.
- Half of the graduates work outside their native country and the responsibilities they exercise are related to their training at the IBEI, with technically complex responsibilities and the respective impact at the salary level.
- The majority of the graduates work in global institutions mostly of a private nature, but also a significant number in the public sphere, and a moderate percentage in non-profit institution.
- A large majority (80%) would recommend IBEI’s master’s programmes to their acquaintances and, in addition, they would repeat.
What our Alumni say about us

“I learnt for the first time about International Relations thanks to IBEI’s masters. Thus, I use that knowledge every day. But of course, if I am to talk more specifically about my day-to-day tasks, this Master has given me the tools to analyze and understand the dynamics at play at the United Nations.”

Judith Trasancos Rodríguez
Master’s in International Relations 2010-2011

“The Master’s programme was quite a good learning experience for me, as I had no previous studies in International Relations before IBEI and I found a great job out of my Master’s degree. All of my work since IBEI has had a strong international component and I owe that to the work I did at IBEI”

Atu Darko
Master’s in International Relations 2007-2008
Associate Director for Communications at Cornell University College of Agriculture and Life Sciences New York (USA).

“IBEI allowed me to focus on the areas of peace, security and development studies. I enjoyed the mixture between theoretical courses and seminars focussing on practical experience of development programming. I also benefitted from the exchange with students from different backgrounds and countries.”

Manuel Hoff
Master’s in International Relations 2012-2013
Programme Officer at the International Organization for Migration (Quito, Ecuador).

“I enjoyed the opportunity to work together with culturally and linguistically diverse colleagues. I learned a great deal about global affairs from a broad array of perspectives through collaborative coursework with real-world, practical applications.”

Ashley Miller
Master’s in International Relations 2014-2015
Research Assistant at FHI 360 in Durham, North Carolina (USA).

“At this moment, I think I’m working on what I want; improving peoples lives through the constructions of public policies and international cooperation. In the future I’m considering looking for a Job in an International Organization to experience working from the other side.”

Gustavo Giler
Master’s in International Relations 2013-2014
Strategic Coordinator of labour at the Ministry of Production, Employment and Competitiveness (Quito, Ecuador).

Research Highlights

1. Global India Kick-Off Meeting
   In May 2017 the Global India project started. It’s a European Training Network funded by the Horizon 2020 programme. The network, coordinated by Dublin City University, is composed by 6 EU Universities and research centres, and academic and non-academic partners based in India.

2. Development in the Face of Global Inequalities
   In May 11-13, 2017, IBEI hosted the conference Development in the Face of Global Inequalities, organized by IBEI and sponsored by The World Society Foundation. More than 120 researchers and students attended the 40 thematic panels and 6 keynote lectures.

3. 11th Pan-European Conference on International Relations
   From 13 to 16 September, IBEI hosted the 11th European International Studies Association (EISA)’s Conference. More than 1300 participants attended through the 4 days conference.

4. Barcelona’gov
   From October to December 2017, IBEI, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona-IGOP, Universitat Pompeu Fabra and Barcelona City Hall organized a series of 6 courses, under the network Barcelona’gov.

5. Post-Habitat III: the Contribution of Cities and Metropolitan Areas
   The Barcelona Metropolitan Area (AMB), the Euro-Latin American Alliance of Cooperation between Cities (AL-LAs), Metropolis and IBEI, organized an international conference to discuss and debate the contribution of cities and metropolitan areas to the New Urban Agenda, setting out the key elements of the new urban and metropolitan model.

New Corporate Projects in 2017

New Virtual Campus

On September 2017 IBEI launched a new virtual campus. The campus is based on the virtual Moodle Rooms, a user-friendly tool aimed at improving the student experience and at fostering a more comfortable and intuitive navigation. This tool allows the student to have a virtual environment with access to a broad spectrum of information and resources of its subjects (links, news, readings, surveys, etc.).
