Welcome to IBEI,

The Institut Barcelona d’Estudis Internacionals (IBEI) is a high-quality international studies inter-university institute, created in 2004 as a joint initiative between five public universities in the Barcelona metropolitan area to promote postgraduate training and research. IBEI has over 25 faculty members with doctorates from major North American and European universities, and many have distinguished profiles in the fields of international relations, international political economy, and comparative politics. IBEI has consolidated itself, both in Spain and abroad, as a leading graduate school and research institute.

Our Master’s programmes are among the strongest in Southern Europe. This year graduated our eleventh cohort in the Masters of International Relations (the program started in 2004/5), and together with the students of the Master’s in International Security and the Erasmus Mundus Master’s in Public Policy, and IBEI researchers, teaching staff and administrative staff, our institute constitute a community of about 200 people, where multiple and intricate conversations flow continuously, and shared discourses and mutual understanding are constructed in classrooms, halls and seminar rooms. Our new spaces in the UPF Ciutadella Campus definitively allow IBEI further possibilities for this, and progressively will allow IBEI voices to resonate internationally.

Crucial pillars of IBEI’s teaching philosophy are small classes and seminar-style teaching, to facilitate discussion and student-faculty interaction. The programmes are complemented by research seminars and specialized workshops that are organized during the academic year. In addition to its Master’s programs, IBEI hosts diverse summer schools and executive courses. Our programs are amazing opportunity to gain a different view of the world and international affairs, not only by attending a wide variety of classes, reading papers and writing essays intensively, but also by sharing personal experiences with fellow students and faculty from more than 40 different countries. The opportunity to contrast different perspectives, sensibilities and values with people from around the world within and outside the classroom is an extraordinary experience, especially when studying and researching international affairs.

Finally, we must confess that IBEI needs support. Our aim is to turn IBEI into one of the major graduate schools of international studies in Europe. In our eleven years of existence, we have already made many advances, beyond what was expected initially, but still there is a lot to do. IBEI needs to keep strong professional, personal and intellectual ties with a variety of stakeholders and academic networks to promote thinking globally from Barcelona, aiming to make IBEI a stronger academic institution, a place to come back to from time to time, and a place to be proud of.

The Teaching Model

The teaching model at IBEI involves the following components:

- Courses delivered in ECTS format
- Intensive use of virtual campus and digital documents
- Small groups in electives and practical seminars
- Personal tutor for each student
- Studying in an active research environment
- Possibility of attending:
  - Conferences at IBEI, UPF and CIDOB
  - Research Workshops /Seminars at IBEI
Internship Programme

The objective of professional internships is to acquaint students with the tasks and challenges involved in the daily practices of organisations and professionals in international relations and security.

These internships may be curricular or extracurricular. In either case, the student must be enrolled in a Master’s Programme offered by IBEI. IBEI offers its own curricular internships.

These are managed directly through collaboration agreements already in place with various companies and institutions. Professional internships do not establish a connection or work relationship between the student and the company or institution.

Enrollment Process

Curricular internships make up part of the curriculum of each Master’s Programme.

Students are required to enroll in the elective course titled “Professional Internship”, worth 4 ECTS credits.

This internship is thus part of the 60 credits necessary to complete the Master’s programme.

Internships are required to have a minimum of 120 hours and a maximum of 900 hours.

Selection Process

Organisations working in collaboration with IBEI send descriptions of available internships, which will be forwarded to students who have requested information about the internships IBEI offers. Students may then notify IBEI if they are interested in any.

The final selection of the candidates will be made by the organisation. The internships will be formalised through an annex of the Internship Agreement signed by IBEI, the organisation and the selected student.

Assessment of curricular internships

Curricular internships are subject to a predefined and standardised assessment system. The final mark is based on two reports:

1. Report from the student’s supervisor in the organisation
2. Five-page personal report written by the student

The student must send the final report to the IBEI academic coordinator of internships by email within one month upon completing the internship.

The IBEI academic coordinator of internships is responsible for determining if the student passes the course.

The final mark is the average of the supervisor’s report and the personal report.

Executive Master’s Degree in Diplomacy and Foreign Affairs

With the aim of building capacities in Catalan institutions in the field of foreign affairs, the Public Diplomacy Council of Catalonia and the Secretariat for Foreign and EU Affairs agreed to launch a supplementary study program in the field of diplomacy and external affairs, intended for employees of Catalonia’s civil service with international experience.

The Executive Master’s in Diplomacy and Foreign Affairs is an innovative post-graduate programme, tailored to the needs of a 21st century public administration. It is designed to prepare for the management of a dynamic and flexible foreign policy and for meeting the challenges of an interdependent world in the communications era. The 10 month training programme focuses on Economy, Communications and Negotiation, without neglecting more traditional areas such as International Law, European Affairs and the History of International Relations.

Mentorship Programme

As a new feature this year, we have designed an Alumni Mentorship Programme with the aim of accompanying the potential students towards admissions and registration processes.

The IBEI provides students with formal questions, such as housing, professors, courses, deadlines, etc. However, the Institute is not able (and probably we are not the best resource) to respond to more substantive questions that the potential student may want to clarify.

As a participant in the programme, a mentor is assigned to the new student. The student will be able to get more accurate information on any question regarding IBEI’s programmes, Barcelona, etc. and any other issues.

Almost 90 IBEI Alumni have participated as a mentor and more than 80 new students have been inscribed to be mentees.

What our Alumni say about us

"The knowledge I acquired in the Master has contributed a great deal to my work as a journalist. I have a much deeper understanding of how different international organisations work and why.”

Helena Spongenberg
Master’s in International Relations 2008-2009
Freelance Journalist and Spain correspondent for EU Observer

"Apart from getting to know a wonderful group of people from all over the world, I also gained practical experience in comparative analysis, research methods, multicultural team work and efficient time management. I was very pleased to be chosen to speak on behalf of my fellow students at our graduation ceremony, which took place in the middle of a war also known as the FIFA World Cup”.

Sarah Cooke O’Dowd
Master’s in International Relations 2009-2010
Communication Officer at Equinet, European Network of Equality Bodies

"I remember often the type of exercises we use to be taught at our courses and seminars in IBEI. Mainly, on those based on the casebook method, where we as students could read specific cases, topics or projects since it stimulated us to develop analytical skills and to induce/deduce the main concept for the subject matter”.

Olga Correa
Master’s in International Relations 2006-2007
Master Coordinator at University of Geneva

"With a background in economics, I decided to take IBEI programme to understand better other aspects of the international scene. The courses in Politics, International Law and International Relations Theory gave to me powerful tools to understand better the complexity affecting politics, institutions and the international economy”.

Fernando Ledo
Master’s in International Relations 2005-2006
Senior Advisor at the African Development Bank (AfDB)

“With the Masters programme at IBEI provided me with the necessary academic and theoretical background and knowledge (e.g. the UN system, peace and security, disarmament, the role of international norms), as well as with some of the methodologies used in my current position. I have also very fond memories of IBEI’s familiar atmosphere, the variety of courses thought by some of the most distinguished professors in their fields, the bilingual setting, the diverse background of fellow students and the many cheerful moments with friends. All this makes it for me a lasting experience that I can only recommend to anyone seeking for a future path in an international professional sphere”.
